ORDERS GOVERNOR TO MOVE

Carolina Executive One of First to "Buck Up" Against "Jim Crow" Car, Law.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., April 3.—Thos. J. And Chalmers L. White, brothers, of Concord, who have served two years of a six-year sentence in the penitentiary for killing Russey Sherrill, whom they charged with the ruin of their niece in Rowan county, walked out of the prison at 11 o'clock to-day freemen, a pardon being granted by Governor Clehn on the findings of the Council of State. The Governor had been of counsel for the prosecution when they were convicted, and for that reason be had referred the applications for pardon to the Council of State, whose report was signed and sealed Monday night. However, the absence of the Governor from the city prevented the document being opened until this morning, when the pardon was promptly issued and Superintendent Mann, of the penitentiary, telephoned directions to liberate the prisoners. The report of the Council of State was to the effect that "having carefully considered the petitions, letters and evidence of every sort, together with arguments of counsel on both sides, we advise that they be pardoned on condition that they remain of good behavior." on condition that they remain of good behavior."

behavior."

Governor Glenn had, expressed his opposition to a pardon and conviction, that the Whites were guilty and should not be pardoned at this time. He concludes an official statement reviewing the case and the report of the Council with the statement: "In yiew of this decision of Council of State, without reviews are variable my State, without giving any opinion my-self, I herewith grant the application for pardon, conditioned on their re-maining of good behavior."

Governor Glenn Victim.

The enforcement of the new street car "Jim Crow" law in the Raleigh atreet cars, beginning April 1st, has given rise to many interesting and amusing incidents, especially notable being the fact that Governor R. B. Glenn was one of the very first citizens have to be "ordered" to his lawful section of the car under the "Jim Crow" regulations. The Governor hurried out of the mansion to take a car that was just passing for the union depot, where he was to catch an early train for Holly Springs. He halled the car as he almost ran from the mansion to the street, and when he had climbd in at the rear steps, sank into one of the nearest scats. Under the new law the rear seats are for the negroes, and so the conductor, under imperative orders to enforce this law, promptly informed His Excellency that he could not occupy that seat and must move to the other end of the Car. The Governor promptly complied and expressed his gratification at this illustration of efforts at enforcement of the law.
